"Do not cut until the earlier heads shatter some. Wait until you have three swaths cut, then cut the binders; or rather the bands that set it up. Put three sheaves or bunches together on end and tie tightly around the top. The advantage of setting three swaths together is that it leaves your bunches in rows sufficiently wide apart to admit of Harness, Saddles, Bridles driving between them in hauling in. Let the binders stand until the outside is somewhat bleached and scattered. Thresh out of the shock. Take two or more large barrels and place convenient to the kitchen. Into this deposit all the EXTINGUISHER pot-liquor, dishwater, and greasy water of any kind, refuse pieces of bacon, and a few bucketsful of soap suds. Let it stand a few days or until fermentation begins, and then add to each barrel one bushel of fine charcoal, and half bushel of corn meal, one handful of salt, and a half pound of copperas. Let it stand a short time so that the coal may become thoroughly saturated with the liquid, then feed to the hogs in the usual manner; this has never failed as a preventive, and in every instance wherein from neglect the disease made its appearance, succeeded in curing it in a few days.
